

FOCUS

The central concern of Advaita Vedānta of Sri Śankara as commented in Brahmasutra Bhāṣya is “all Vedānta is directed towards establishing the doctrine of Oneness and integrity of Self (atmaikatva)” through dispelling off Avidyā. If Avidyā is infinite/ indescribable having its locus in the Ultimate Reality can it be claimed that cognition results in knowledge of Ultimate Reality even while Avidyā is having its locus in Brahman? Also, Chāndogya Upaniṣad III. 12.6 says ‘one foot of him are all things, his three feet are immortal in heaven’. Does this imply that cognition results in the entire knowledge of Brahman or does it imply something else?

SOME COSMIC TRUTHS

Does there exist any absolute principle or reality?

- ★ The Advaita Vedānta categorically accepts an absolute entity without a second, not monistic. The Science accepts the truth that from Singularity the multiplicity comes into existence.
- ★ According to Vedic dictum Hiraṇyagarbha (the Golden Egg) was the first existential Being. Science discloses the state of existence just prior to the Big-Bang as gaseous cloud (Nebulae).
- ★ Śakti or power remained in dormant form before creation. Power or Energy plays a dominant role in Creation.
- ★ Cosmic Super Strings(Energy Capsules) are the carriers of all forms of Energy. All forms of Energy is One ultimately.
- ★ Consciousness is never destroyable. It is Eternal. The common thread between the Eternal and the created is Consciousness.
- ★ Black Holes are the celestial Demons that grabs everything passing nearby.

ENVIRONMENTAL TRUTHS

Pradakṣiṇa (circling around) an Aśvattha (Fig) Tree is highly beneficial to Health. The Fig tree produces large quantity of Oxygen. It has a capacity to absorb 4.15% of Dust and Smoke from the Atmosphere.

Circling round a temple or shrine barefooted is proposed for activation of our entire body as well the mind as every part of the foot is connected to the brain and has different and unique functions.
